

August 2009

Good Deeds

By Mark Langton

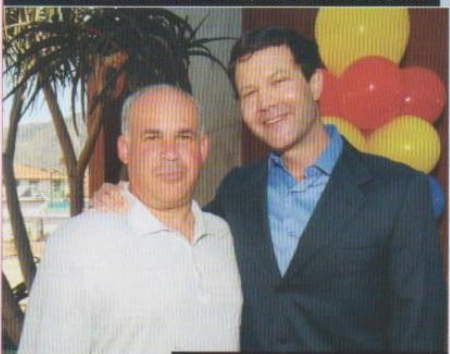

Aaron Serruya, Courteney Cox-Arquette and David Arquette

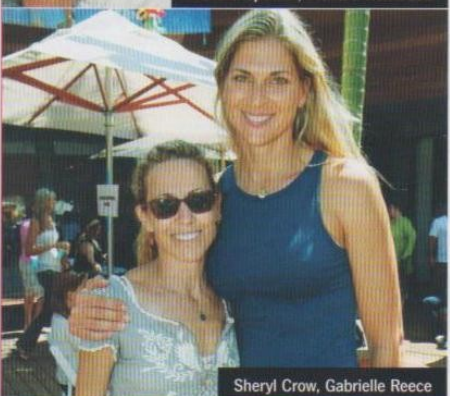

Lisa Linde and James Marsden

Tori Spelling and daughter Stella
Doreen McDermott, Denise Richards

Richard Sperber, Richard Weintraub

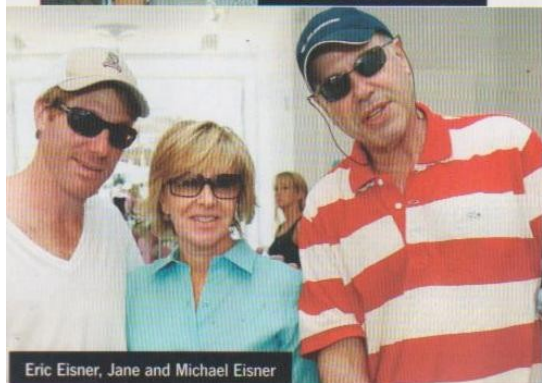

Sheryl Crow, Gabrielle Reece

COASTAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Malibu turns out to raise funds for the EB Medical Research Foundation.

THE EVENT: Hosted by actors Courteney Cox-Arquette, David Arquette, and James Marsden, the day was filled with family-friendly activities. Held at Malibu Lumber Yard in Malibu and presented by Sinupret for Kids and Yogen Früz frozen yogurt, families were treated to food from local restaurants, jewelry making, face painting, balloon creations, ping-pong tournaments, cupcake decorating, and more.

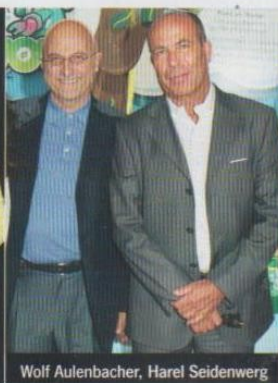

THE CAUSE: EB (epidermolysis bullosa) is a painful and life-threatening skin disorder that in severe cases causes acute blistering of the skin, much like a third-degree burn. Those afflicted with more severe cases suffer deformation of the extremities, stunted growth, and constant pain. The EB Medical Research Foundation was created to help fund medical scientists in their quest to learn more about EB, develop treatments, and help find a cure. Participating Malibu Lumber Yard stores donated 10 percent of their sales during the weekend to benefit the EB Medical Research Foundation. For more information go to www.ebkids.org. ■

Eric Eisner, Jane and Michael Eisner

Brooke Shields and daughter Rowan Henchy

Wolf Aulenbacher, Harel Seidenberg

Stacey Bendet