

Courtney Cox &
David Arquette

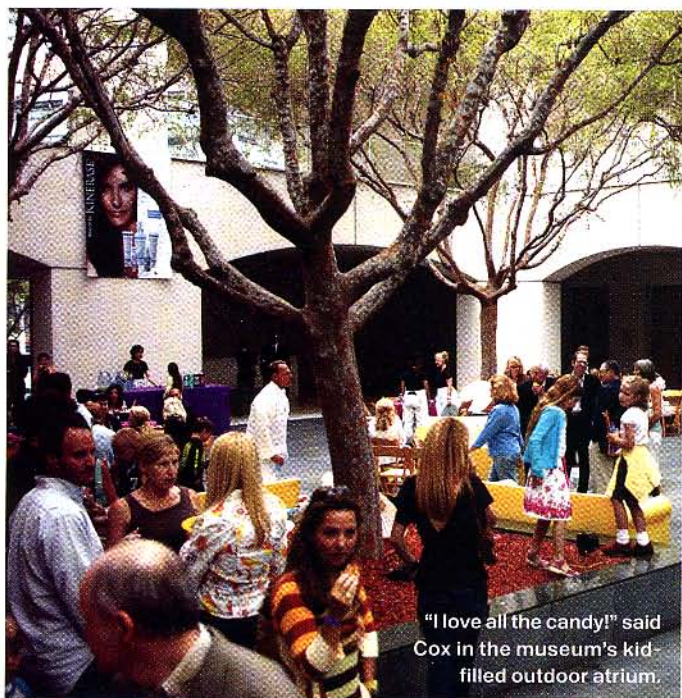

scene
+
heard

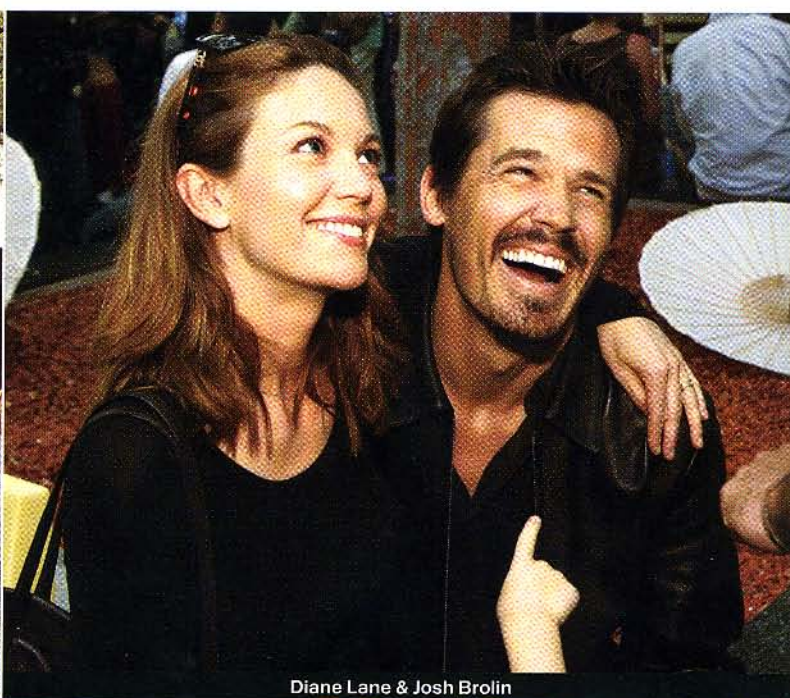

Epidermolysis Bullosa Benefit

The Hammer Museum, Los Angeles

COURTENEY COX CHANNELED WILLY WONKA AT HER FUNDRAISER for the Epidermolysis Bullosa Medical Research Foundation, which aims to find a cure for the rare skin disease that afflicts thousands of Americans. Guests gathered in the outdoor courtyard of L.A.'s Hammer Museum to indulge in some unlikely Hollywood fare: juice-box "cocktails," peanut-butter-and-jelly canapés, and Everlasting Gobstopper centerpieces. It wasn't just the kids sampling →

"I love all the candy!" said Cox in the museum's kid-filled outdoor atrium.

Diane Lane & Josh Brolin

Epidermolysis Bullosa Benefit
The Hammer Museum,
Los Angeles

the goodies—the adults had clearly checked their Zone diets at the door of the event, sponsored by Kinerase (for which Cox is a spokeswoman). “They’re making leaps and bounds in the candy department,” David Arquette said before a screening of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. “This is probably the first time I’ve had Coca-Cola in 10 years,” added his big sister Rosanna, who was drinking it all in. As for how this spread compared with a three-martini lunch at the Ivy, Skeet Ulrich said, “I’ll probably leave with less of a headache.” Across the quad Camryn Manheim’s child, Milo, 4, was spellbound by a magician, and Maria Bello’s son Jackson, 4, tried Nerds. “He’s going into sugar shock,” joked the actress. But Diane Lane ignored the confections: “I’m a salt girl, so I prefer the popcorn.” Candy lovers or not, raising more than $100,000 made this one sweet charity event. —Ellen Lieberman

Rosanna Arquette

Maria Bello

“First I put on my bronzer, then my paler, so I maintain my youthful look.”
—David Spade on his skin-care secrets at the Kinerase-backed event

David Spade

Camryn Manheim and son Milo at Hammer Museum

Michael Clarke Duncan at Hollywood Stars

Andy Roddick and Matthew Perry at ESPYs

SEEN

The Sporting Life

IT WAS ALL JOCKS AND JOKES AT THE ESPY Awards until Oprah showed up. By the time she was done presenting the Arthur Ashe Courage Award to two disabled athletes, there was hardly a dry eye in the Kodak Theater. Matthew Perry hosted, dropping his drawers at one point and giving a dramatic reading of Jose Canseco's book at another. Michael Clarke Duncan, Molly Sims, and Sean Astin joined the Boys in Blue at Dodger Stadium for the team's 47th Annual Hollywood Stars softball game. Astin was the game's MVP, slugging homer after homer. Over at the UCLA Hammer Museum, Courteney Cox and David Arquette used their celebrity-ness to raise awareness of epidermolysis bullosa, a life-threatening skin disease that affects children. Diane Lane, Josh Brolin, Camryn Manheim, and Brad Grey joined them, nibbling PB&J sandwiches before a screening of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. —Kari Mozena

"Ten minutes ago I had world-class sex with Serena Williams backstage. I'm kidding—20 minutes ago."

—MATTHEW PERRY at ESPYs

"On any other school night I wouldn't be here."

—CAMRYN MANHEIM at Hammer Museum

Maria Sharapova at ESPYs

Courteney Cox and David Arquette at Hammer Museum

"I shower every day with 25 guys, some prettier than others."

—Red Sox pitcher CURT SCHILLING at ESPYs

Destiny's Child and Serena Williams at ESPYs

Michelle Trachtenberg at the Candie's and Kohl's celebration.

Taryn Manning at the Candie's and Kohl's celebration.

Elizabeth Perkins at the EB medical research fund-raiser.

Josh Brolin and Diane Lane at the EB medical research fund-raiser.

Marcia Cross in Escada at the Monte Carlo Television Film Festival.

Courteney Cox Arquette and David Arquette at the EB Medical Research Fundraiser.

Hilary Duff at the Candie's and Kohl's Celebration.

The Monte Carlo Television Festival
MONTE CARLO
JUNE 30, 2005
PHOTOGRAPH BY PASCAL LE SEGRETAIN

California State Summer School for the Arts (CSSSA) honored 500 artistically talented California High School students as Governor's Arts Scholars at Cal Arts.
VALENCIA
AUGUST 5, 2005

PHOTOGRAPHS BY ERIC CHARBONNEAU
@ BERLINERSTUDIO/BEIMAGES

Candie's and Kohl's Celebrate Hilary Duff's New Campaign for Candie's, sold exclusively at Kohl's.
HOLLYWOOD ROOSEVELT, HOLLYWOOD
JULY 11, 2005
PHOTOGRAPHS BY CHRIS WEEKS/WIREIMAGE.COM

Dave Foley at the EB medical research fund-raiser.

Samantha Harris at the EB medical research fundraiser.

Courteney Cox and Kinerase host a fundraiser for the EB Medical Research Foundation.
HAMMER MUSEUM, LOS ANGELES
JULY 11, 2005
PHOTOGRAPHS BY JEFF VESPA/WIREIMAGE.COM

Christina Ricci with students at the CSSSA Honors.

Susan Dolgen, Christina Ricci, Wendy Goldberg, and Jamie McGurk at the CSSSA Honors.

Gavin Rossdale at the EB medical research fund-raiser.